Archbishop of Canterbury in New York

#81159/1 The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Robert Runcie, talks with Cardinal Terence Cooke of New York after an ecumenical service of Evensong at the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine in New York. In his sermon at the service, Runcie had called for continued ecumenical dialogue and, at a press conference the next day, lamented the fact that "theologians have learned to talk to each other but have not learned to talk to the faithful in the pews." Runcie's episcopate has involved a deep commitment to ecumenism. He is a personal friend of Cardinal Basil Hume in England and is already planning a "joint worship service" with Pope John Paul when the Pontiff visits England next year. (Credit: Chris Den Blaker)

#81159/2 At a reception at New York's Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine, Archbishop Robert Runcie of Canterbury greeted many of the leaders of American religion. Here he presents the Most Rev. Andrei Kuschak of the Ukrainian Orthodox Church in America to his wife, Rosalind, while Presiding Bishop John M. Allin looks on. Waiting to greet Dr. Runcie is the Most Rev. Metropolitan Theodosius, Primate of the Orthodox Church in America and Archbishop of Washington. Before his elevation to Canterbury, Runcie was the Anglican co-chairman of Anglican-Orthodox theological conversations. (Credit: Christ Den Blaker).
